

SPEAK UP FOR YOUR COUNTY

Who speaks for the birds? Who speaks for wildlife? Who speaks for the wetlands?
Who speaks for Martin County? YOU DO!

CITIZENS FORUM

April 22, 2017

1:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Martin County faces new challenges in a changing world. Residents must hold our elected representatives accountable. Their decisions affect our neighborhoods, traffic congestion, crime, schools, sprawl, taxes and every aspect of our quality of life.

What Can You Do?

Join us for the Annual Citizens Forum, where speakers will discuss critical issues that face Martin County now and in the future and explain the process and the importance of citizen participation in local government. Questions are welcome.

A Comprehensive Plan Amendment has been proposed to allow developers to pave over small urban wetlands. The Local Planning Agency rejected the amendment after residents spoke against it. The Board of County Commissioners will vote on the proposal on April 25, 2017. SPEAK UP!

Sponsors

Martin County Conservation Alliance
preserve our environment & protect our quality of life

PEGASUS FOUNDATION

bullsugar.org

"Think globally. Act locally."

Join your friends and neighbors, newcomers and long-time residents, voters and elected officials at the Citizens Forum.

Speak Up for Your County.

Together we make a difference.

Speakers

Commissioner Sarah Heard
Tom Hawkins, 1000 Friends of Florida
Greg Braun, Wetlands Expert
Maggy Hurchalla, Comp Plan Expert
Virginia Sherlock, Attorney
Residents of Martin County

Free Admission

RSVP requested
for light refreshments:
286-9845 or elzer@gate.net

Date & Time

April 22, 2017, 1:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Location

Wolf Technology Center
Indian River State College Campus
2400 SE Salerno Road
Stuart, FL 34997

We advise parking on the side of the building toward Martin Public Library for easy access to the auditorium.*